

The Well-Heeled Society

FRIDAY, JANUARY 09, 2009

Heelskinz: Slip One on For Size

The only businesses thriving right now are credit counseling companies, Mickey D's and shoe repair stores, forcing most of us to wear the title of recessionista by default. Not that it's a bad thing; I have always been a consumer of the vintage shop versus department store. Originality trumps cookie cutter looks, I say!

And now that I am digging my heels back in the land that is seasoned with salt, slush and lake effect snow, it was divine intervention when Terri Andrews, CEO of Heelskinz contacted me to ship a sample to try out. Heelskinz protect your precious driving heel from scuffs, dirt and the aforementioned salt. On the occasions where I will kick my insulated snow boots to the curb to don my patent booties, I now have the protection of a Heelskinz for stiletto boots to slip on.

The great thing about Heelskinz is that you can customize yours; think of it as a single glove for your driving heel. From solid colors to leopard, stiletto or boot, you can order a back design that ranges from symbols to messages, making your drive time fashionable and cost-effective.

Posted by styleandsubstance at 1/09/2009

Labels: Heelskinz, high heel protector